Phonetic script on aged parchment, likely representing a medieval or early modern language. The text is densely written and spans approximately 15 lines. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher without a key, but it appears to be a form of shorthand or a specific dialect. The parchment shows signs of age, including discoloration and some wear at the edges.

I have given my hand and seal to the above said articles and conditions of the said charter and have caused the same to be written in the said book.

Et nos dictus rex et dicta regina nostre significatione fieri volumus quod dicta carta et conditiones supradictas in omnibus et in singulis suis articulis et conditionibus strictim et rigore observentur et serventur in futurum sine quocumque impedimento vel obstructione.

In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals at London the first day of June in the second year of our said lord king's reign.

99

And we command you that you cause the same to be observed and kept in all your bailiwicks and shires and in all your towns and parishes and in all other places where you have jurisdiction without any delay or hindrance.
